tionary of North America and the West Indies: By Bisnor Davenrort. (1 vol. 2vo., pp. 582.) New-York: T. W. Douglas, 156 Fulton.st.

This work, of which a new and carefully corrected edition has just been laid before us, has already acquired a deserved reputation throughout the country. Mr. Davenport, devoting his whole time to the collection of new facts developed by or connected with the progress of the Country, is able to render it more valuable with each succeeding issue.

It now comprises: 1. A General Description of North America; 2. A General Description of the United States; the Declaration of independence and Federal Constitution; 3. A Description of all the States, Counties, Cities, Towns, Villages,

Forts, Seas, Harbors, Capes, Rivers, Lakes, Ca-

with North America; to which is added a great amount of Statistical Information connected with the progress of Population, Production, Wealth,

THE CASE STATED .- A powerful stream had run over falls, in a certain neighborhood, since the creation. The people on the bank had long admired the stream and fall, but they could not control or use it, having neither money nor skill.

The people got their living by raising hops, with a little corn, beans and potatoes; and poultry was their principal stock, as the land, being mostly a pine barren, yielded little grass. That which was cultivated was worth only $5 an acre, and much

A. B. and C. came among them, bought a hunstrong dam and factory. They paid $29,000 to the people for labor, for quarrying stones, making bricks, and putting up the factory and dam, and

$1,000 went for nails, glass, &c. They paid $1

a day for labor, and double for lumber to what it ever brought before. The clay and stones were

After the factory was finished they hired all the young men at $1 a day, and the young women at 50 cents. Land rose in the visinity, so that many got $1,000 for that which was not before worth 100.

The farmers round get one-third more for their hay, corn and potatoes. Vegetables, which were worth nothing before, except to eat, now brought a ready market. The articles manufactured were sold to

THE TRIBUNE.

Gov. Davis on Protection and the Land Distribution.

The Legislature of Massachusetts reassembled on Wednesday at Boston in Extra Session, to Disrict the State for the choice of Members of Congress under the new Apportionment. A plan had already been reported by a Committee, throwing the whole excess of population on Boston, which with 90,000 inhabitants forms a District; the rest of the State is divided into nize equal Districts of just about 70,000 each. The Governor communicated to the Legislature a brief Message, in which he treats of our great National Interests as Congress passed a law to carry into effect this policy, so well devised to revive and infuse new energy into the languishing business of the people of this Commonwealth, but it met in the hands of the Executive with the fate of other measures which were designed to mitigate the public distress .-The President could not urge in his justification constitutional scruples, for he had at the previous session signed the Distribution Act, but his apology for defeating a measure vital to the best interests of the great laboring community, is the exigencies of the treasury, though the treasury could scarcely need replenishing more than at the time he approved the Distribution Act.

The Executive assumes virtually that no bill providing for a duty of more than 20 per cent. shall become a law, unless the revenue from the lands is restored to the treasury by the suspension of the Distribution Act, and he has accomplished his object. He has brought the revenue from the lands back into the treasury, and it will be instrumental in renewing the scenes and working out the results which have disheartened the laborer, and retarded the prosperity of this country for many years past. This revenue, all have learnt from experience, is exceedingly fluctuating. We have seen it deranging the whole system of financial pelicy, both by excess and deficiency. We have seen it reach nearly twenty-five millions of dellars in a year and then fall to less than two millions thus unsettling and deranging the whole system of duties, and keeping the tariff question in constant agitation by an apparent necessity to raise or lower duties. This unsteady basis of the financial policy-this constant agitation of the question-this uncertainty as to what is to come, keeps all whose business rests directly or remotely upon the Tariff for support in a state of alarm which paralyzes dred acres of land, including the falls, giving $10 their energy, and is fatal to their prosperity .-Sudden changes in the financial system are too often followed by disastrous consequences, and hence it is a matter of mementous consideration that the system should rest upon a firm basis demanding little change. No measure ever adopted by Congress promised more auspicious results to labor than the law of distribution, which removed | before worth nothing. They paid for labor, as we from the treasury the great disturbing cause which created excesses and deficiences, nor has any law held out to the working man, and allothers, such a promise of a future state of things on which we might rely with confident assurance, as there could be little occasion for injurious change. The defeat of a measure so auspicious to our best interests, so well designed to remove the embarrassments which have beset the whole country, and so full of the promise of benefits to come, is, therefore,

Those who are opposed to a Tariff, discriminated so as to protect industry, and who are in favor of reducing the wages of labor, will no doubt be apposed to a distribution of the revenue from the lands, for they perceive what has been so long and so deeply felt by the friends of American industry that the surest way to check manufacturing enterprise, and to obstruct the division of labor, is to keep the revenue laws in a state of fluctuationto make it uncertain whether he who has 25 per cent. protection this year, will have more than ten or fifteen the next. Nor are they blind to the fact that the revenue from the lands will almost necessarily be so irregular as to work out this result. If any injustice were done to States or to the people by the distribution, we might find it that circumstance a motive to resist the policy .-But whatever sums might be distributed, there is not a State where the people would be relieved to the extent of all it receives from direct taxation In our own Commonwealth we raise annually great sums for free schools, for the support of highways and the poor, and to meet the multiplied exigences of the times. So it is elsewhere, and as many of the States are burdened with debt, a more seasonable and welcome relief from public burdens could not be afforded to the whole people of the United States.

In a country like ours, differing widely from the old continent in this, that our land produces, through the blessing of Heaven, enough of the substantial comforts of life for all, it is matter of surprise that the measures which are best calculated to promote a division of labor, by which alone these blessings can be so distributed as to make all who have the capacity and the will to take care of themselves, comfortable and happy, far beyond the enjoyments of other countries, should be so steadily and resolutely resisted.

But the people must not be discouraged by a defeat-they have the power to set this matter right; and a steady, patient, resolute perseverance at the ballot bex will accomplish it. No friend of the great interests of labor should slacken his exertions till the distributive policy is carried into successful operation. Notwithstanding the defeat of a measure so salutary and auspicious to the interests of the people, we find much consolation in the fact that the horizontal line of duties has been abandoned, and that the great principle of discrimination in favor of American labor has been restored. This we owe to the patience and persevering energy of Congress amid embarrassments such as have seldom beset a deliberative body. That the new revenue law will exert a happy influence in renewing the courage of the despondent, and in infusing new life and energy into business, can scarcely ad. mit of a doubt; but the work is not done, nor will it be till the principle of distribution is as-serted and maintained. This may be done by such a law as was enacted at the extra session, or the average amount received from the sale of public lands in ordinary years may be ascertained, and that sum paid into the treasury, while the surplus shall be distributed. Until the one or the other is accomplished, there will be no lasting Prosperity. Council Chamber, Sept. 7, 1842. JOHN DAVIS.

BRISTOL'S SARSAPARILLA, Man-nfactured and sold by the proprietor, C. C. BRIS. TOL, number 207 Main-street, Buffalo, N. Y. and also sold

This preparation has now been before the public about seven years, during which time its reputation has been steadily and rapidly advancing, until its present and deserved celebrity has been attained; nor is it stationary at even this altitude of estimation, as the evidence of each succeeding day clearly evinces. Many of the first physicians in the Country have voluntarily borne witness to its superior efficacy of value, as their written certificates now in the possession of the proprietor will show. Testimonials almost innumerable, from persons who have been benefited by its use, or have seen its medicinal virtues tested by their friends, are also in the possession of Mr Bristol, which prove how many, how various, and how extreme have been the instances in which, by its operation, the sick and the almost despairing have been restored to health and happiness. BRISTOL'S SARSAPARILLA is a rare and invalgable combination of vegetable remedies of established medical value, and from its peculiar properties is almost infallible in all complaints that arise from impurities of the blood, from the merbid action of the absorbent and glandular systems. from constitutional idiosyncracies, hereditary predisposition, and in general all chronic and long standing infirmities and irregularities of the human frame. To enumerate all the diseases in which it has been found to be a sovereign remedy would be to make this notice much too lengthy, and we can only here suggest to the reader the value and importance of this preparation, and refer him to advertisements in the public papers for more detailed intelligence respect-ing its efficacy, in nearly all cases of complaint except those of the most ordinary, or endemic and epidemic character. The proprietor desires only to have attention genererally directed to this article, confident that its rare virtues only need be known to be appreciated; that it will stand the test of any trial, and that increased usefulness, and added popularity, must be the direct result of its more extended acquaintance.

The following extract of a letter from Dr J A Hyde, on of the oldest and most respectable practitioners in the west-ern section, is given: Youngstown, June 11, 1838. Mr C C Bristol—Dear Sir: I am nearly out of Sarsaparilla again, and, if you please, you may send me two dozes bottles, by stage or cars, directed to me at this place.

Thave frequently prescribed your Compound Fluid Extractof Sarsaparilla for a few years past, with much advantage, in chronic diseases, especially in Scrotula and obstinate cutanceus affectious attended with scrofulous babit. Also, in second admitted the compound of condary syphilis; and in chronic general debility, from almost any cause. It generally proves useful. I think your fluid Extract the best preparation of Saraparilla I ever used. With much respect, yours, truly.

I have been acquainted with Bristol's Sausaparilla for a number of years, and have very frequently prescribed it in my practice, and have invariably found it to answer the desired effect. I consider the reputation of the article established, and where the genuine can be obtained, I have no besitation in saying that a trial of its virtues will sustain my opinion.

We, the undersigned physicians, residing in Darien and Bennington, having treated Mr E Cross during his illness, anow the above statement of his case to be true in all particulars, and we have not the least hesitation in ascribing his cure to the use of Bristol's Sarsaparilla. I eave been lately the physician to Mr. Maynard, and was called to see him during his illness, some time in the month of August or September last, and I must say I was much surprised and astonished to see Mrs. Maynard officiating as surprised and astonished to see Mrs. Mayhard omerating as nurse, and attending to his wants while he was sick. Her case was one that I was, conversant with but never prescribed for; it was Procidentia, and for the most part of 7 or 8 years she had been obliged to be conveyed about the house and nursed in a cradle constructed for that purpose. Until she commenced the use of Briston's Sarsaparilla her disease resisted the best medical treatment. I was frequence with the consult with Dr. Game in her case, from the consult with Dr. Game in her case. quently called to consult with Dr. Gage in her case, but the disease had assumed such a form that my opinion was, that medicine would have no effect in producing a cure. I am perfectly convinced that her recovery is entirely attributable to the use of Bristol's Sarsaparilla. JOHN M. HARRINGTON, M. D.

Alden, Jan. 17, 1842. Alden, Jan. 17, 1842.

Thave been one of the attending physicians of Mrs. Maynard for 3 years past. Her disease was Prolapsus Uteri of an aggravated character, and resisted all the agents laid down in our most eminent authors. In addition to remedial agents recommended, I prescribed various instruments to no effect. I am clearly of the opinion that her cure may be attributed to the use of Bristol's Sarsaparilla. GROVE C. GAGE, M. D.

We have been acquainted with the circumstances of Mis Maynard's sickness for eight years past, have always understood her case as being beyond the reach of medicine, and have been surprised within the past year to see her about, and we are assured that her recovery is attributable entirely to the use of Bristol's Sarsaparilla. We are further acquainted with the fact that for five years of the time of her sickness, she was obliged to be conveyed from one place to another in the arms of her husband, and in to another in the arms of her husband, and in fact when she was moved at all.

An EXTRAORDINARY CASE—The article below is from the pen of one of our most intelligent medical men, whose statements are entitled to the fullest confidence. The case he details is really a remarkable one, and might well have been supposed beyond the power of medicine.

Statement of the Physician who visited the Patient in person, and who was at the time one of the Editors of the Com-mercial Advertiser.

It is rare indeed that fallen homanity is made to experi-

It is rare tween that tailen homanity is made to experi-ince from the hand of Previdence so much severe and protracted suffering, and such calamitous and shocking tau-tilation as has fallen to the lot of James Wyckoff, a lad 15 years of age, now living in the town of Glarence in this James is the son of a farmer, the offspring of healthy and reputable parents, who have a numerous family of robust children. Without any assignable cause he was suddenly deprived of the sense of hearing some ten years since, deprived of the sense of hearing some ten years since, which was soon followed by what was probably an attack of dry gangrene. This rapidly destroyed first the palate, the bones of the roof of the soouth, and then a considerable portion of the upper jaw, upper ijp, and the whole of the nose, both bones and cartilege, as well as integuments. It would be difficult to imagine in what way a more unsightly deformity could be impressed upon the 'human fare divine.' This frightful disease ceased its ravages on the face after the parties of the second This frightful disease ceased its ravages on the face after several months, to renew them again in other parts of the system with greater and more destructive severity.

Some two years ago, a "black spot"—as the intelligent mother of this most unfortneate child told the writer of this —was observed under the nail of each big toe. This ominus appearance was the vrecursor of a second attack of gangrene, which gradually extended over each foot and leg to within four inches of the knee. A separation then took the ribs, and of the right eye were also affected with the same destroying complaint in its incipient stages. On examining the boy, who, notwithstanding he is deaf and mute, is really intelligent and sprightly, the greatest marvel to us was, how it was possible for a constitution so very feeble and lifeless, that the system was falling rapidly to pieces from the death or its parts, could, when reduced to a mere ragment of humanity, hold out, and prolong for years a miserable existence. Strange as it may seem we found this piece of a child sitting at the dinner table with the rest of the family, and feeding himself with meat, potatoes, bread and the like, with an evident relish of the hearty meat. His stumps of limbs, which lately presented a hideous mass of eating ulcers, are now healing over kindly, and nothing but the scars are left to tell the 'njury done to the left shouldbut the scars are left to tell the 'njury done to the left should-er and the parts that surround the right eye, the lower jaw, and the fragments of ears still growing en the head, the ap-pearance of which we shall not attempt to describe.

The certain check given to this terrible spreading and popeless analady—the removal of the intense protracted pains over excited by irritable fungous flesh connected with dead animal matter—the quiet sleep, increased strength, and sta-ble convalescence so manifest in the person of James—were all, and doubtless justly, attributed by his mother to the ex-clusive use, for the last six weeks, of regular portion of Mr. C. C. BRISTOL'S SARSAPARILLA. Those who have witnessed the truly auspicious, and most unexpected effects of this medicine in this very extraordinary case, are manimous in the opinion that had it been early administered when the disease was comparatively small and feeble, and the constitution sound and vigorous, it could not have failed to prevent one of the greatest calamities that can be all a human being.

CERTIFICATE OF GEN. MANSFIELD.

MR. C. C. BRISTOL—I have been acquainted with Perer Wyckoff for more than twenty years, and have known its sou James from his intancy to this day, and I do hereby that the facts set forth in the above, from the Comnercial Advertiser are correct. ORANGE MANSFIELD, P. M.

Nov. 26th, 1841.

Bloomfield, Oakland co. Mn., July 23, 1841. Messrs John Owen & Co., Detroit: Gent.—Sometime in the year 1832, I was attacked with what was called by some of my attending physicians, the King's Evil. I immediately applied to a Dr. Thompson, who said it must be cut out; I then applied to another physician who ordered blistering. During my sickness I employed eight different physicians, and by one I was advised to have my arm amputated, which I declined. In the year '57 mortification set in, when I applied to a root doctor, who appeared to help it some. In that year I sold a span of horses and two cows, and spent the whole of it, say $150, which only served to keep it back. I have used almost every thing I could hear of, without any great benefit.

In July last a cure was attempted by a person, who, like all others, failed. The expense of all this has been at least $5:0. From about four inches below the shoulder to about the middle of the fore arm, there have been at least twenty holes, many of them as large as a silver dollar and half an inch deep. In February, 1842, I accidentally came across a wrapper from a bottle of Bristol's Sarsaparilla, and made up my mind to try the medicine. On the 15th day of that month I commenced using it, and used a bottle a week for two or three months, when I found myself to all appearance completely cured. At any rate, since that time I have ance completely cured. At any rate, since that time I have not felt any pain from it. No sores have appeared, and it seems perfectly sound, and I can labor as well with it as with the other arm. I am so well satisfied of its superiority over every thing else that I have tried, that I most earnestly recommend any person to begin using it immediately who may be similarly afflicted.
